because our tailors have caught the young man idea of model and design correctly. Not in cloth caricatures which are mistaken for extreme styles—but in INDIVIDUALITY; in radical but refined patterns; in modishness of a type that is wholly original and entirely exclusive.

And back of it is workmanship, which counts for fully half in Clothes' satisfaction.

The young man sees no such assortment of weaves at his tailor's; he hears our prices doubled for garments that fall short of ours in character. Of course, Calvert Clothes win.

ONE MORE WEEK.

A week has skeddaddled wherever weeks go; it's doubtless been paddled across Styx's flow. We're grayer and older and wearier now; our blood's running colder; new lines seam the brow. Old Father Time's tearing; by hustling he thrives; each passing week's paring a slice from our lives. And some who were jolly a short week ago, have learned melancholy and heartache and woe; and some vacant places are now in the room; and some tear-wet faces are heavy with gloom. And some who were keeping sad vigils with sighs, have driven the weeping and woe from their eyes. A week is so little, in ages sublime! A splinter we whittle from forests of time! A drop in the ocean, a speck in the skies—not worth the commotion we make when it flies! And yet it embraces both gladness and tears, and fastens its traces on all coming years. So may it be granted to people to say, when this week is planted: "Twas not thrown away! We've toiled and we've striven as well as we could, to reach out for heaven and all that is good!"

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic and alterative, free from alcohol. What is a "tonic"? A medicine that imparts strength or tone; a medicine that builds up, gives vigor and power. What is an "alterative"? A medicine that alters or changes unhealthy action to healthy action. Ayer's Sarsaparilla does all this without stimulation. Never take a medicine your own doctor cannot endorse.

PAPERS ARE LACKING

Interior Department Hinted as "Holding Out."

BALLINGER INQUIRY DELAYED

In Answer to Attack of Prosecution Attorney Vertrees Declares Bureau Produces Documents as Soon as Available—Brandeis Certain He Can Refute Charge Against Glavis.

Wrangling over the failure of the Interior Department promptly to produce letters and documents called for by Louis D. Brandeis, attorney for the prosecution, delayed the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation yesterday.

Mr. Brandeis made an extended argument and conveyed the impression the department was holding out documentary evidence.

Attorney Vertrees, for Secretary Ballinger, came back with the declaration that the department was furnishing documents just as rapidly as they were available, and that he resented the imputation. On motion of Senator Sutherland, Mr. Brandeis was instructed to put his demands in writing.

The records Mr. Brandeis is especially desirous of procuring will, he believes, refute the charge that L. R. Glavis "habitually procrastinated" in the matter of taking steps to bring suits to set aside the entries of Cunningham claimants on the grounds of fraud.

Counsel for Claimants.

Assistant Secretary Pierce, of the Interior Department, resumed the witness stand and his story of his connection with the Alaska coal claim cases. He said that Secretary Ballinger had told Cunningham and the latter's attorney, John P. Gray, in his (Pierce's) presence that the Cunningham cases would be handled entirely by the Assistant Secretary because he (Ballinger) had acted as counsel for the claimants.

Mr. Pierce flatly contradicted the testimony of L. R. Glavis, to the effect that Pierce had sent for him and talked to him about the opinion constraining the act of May 23, 1905. Glavis had testified that Pierce had told him that Secretary Ballinger had turned the matter of rendering the opinion over to him, instead of referring it to the Attorney General.

"I have three reasons for being positive about this," said Mr. Pierce. "First, my memory is quite clear. Second, I never sent for Glavis, and never had but one conversation with him, and in that one the subject was nothing to do with the opinion. Third, I would not send for Glavis to consult him about a legal question when we had a legal force of thirty men in the department."

Mr. Pierce impressed the committee with the importance attached to the Cunningham cases in the Interior Department. He said that before the decision would be issued in those cases he would have the record gone over by twenty-five men in his legal force, and would then have the Attorney General review the evidence.

Denies Influence Sought.

In concluding his direct testimony, Mr. Pierce asserted that Secretary Ballinger had never in any manner sought to influence his (Pierce's) decision in the Cunningham cases.

Attorney Brandeis announced that he would not cross-examine Mr. Pierce until after Secretary Ballinger had testified. Attorney Vertrees objected strenuously, denouncing Mr. Brandeis' course as dilatory. Senator Sutherland said he would object also to Mr. Brandeis' deferring the cross-examination.

Mr. Brandeis said that in view of the fact that he had been denied the right to call Secretary Ballinger as a witness at the time he believed the Secretary's testimony should have been heard, and the committee refused to require the defense to call Secretary Ballinger as its witness, he did not think the committee should further handicap him by compelling him to cross-examine Mr. Pierce. Attorney Vertrees said the "shallowness of Mr. Brandeis' pretext" was apparent to everyone and that there could be no sound reason for deferring the cross-examination.

On motion of Senator Purcell, the committee deferred its decision until a full committee should be in attendance.

Pierce's Testimony Corroborated. Francis W. Clements, first assistant attorney for the Interior Department, corroborated Mr. Pierce's testimony relating to the preparation of the opinion constraining the act of May 23, 1905.

Attorney Brandeis stated that he would defer the cross-examination of Mr. Clements, inasmuch as his testimony related chiefly to a conversation with Glavis. Attorney Vertrees again objected, but the committee did not sustain him.

E. C. Finney, assistant to the Secretary of the Interior, like Mr. Pierce and Mr. Clements, refuted the testimony of Glavis. He also told of his being consulted by Mr. Ballinger relative to the withdrawal of land for power sites and said he had intimated to his chief that there was no authority in law for the withdrawals.

McCUMBER OUT OF DANGER.

North Dakota Senator's Resting Comfortably After Operation.

Senator Porter J. McCumber, of North Dakota, who was operated on yesterday at Garfield Hospital, was resting comfortably last night.

The operation was not a serious one, and but little apprehension in felt for his life. Physicians believe he will soon be able to leave the hospital.

SHIP SUBSIDY SCANDAL.

Committee May Extend Inquiry to New York and Cleveland.

If the investigation of the ship subsidy scandal continues beyond the present session of Congress, the Olcott special committee, which is doing the probing, may visit New York, Cleveland, and other cities to dig up the facts.

The committee will meet again next Monday, when John A. Panton, secretary of the Merchant Marine League of the United States, accused Representative Stevenson of making libelous attacks on him and other members. It is expected to occupy the entire session. The committee has not yet considered the question of visiting other cities, but individual members take the position that charges having been made that a foreign steamship lobby existed, New York is a proper place to meet and hear witnesses, while Cleveland is the headquarters of the league, and consequently a good place to secure information.

Former Gov. Myron T. Herrick, of Ohio, prominently identified with the league, is expected to be called as a witness before long.

WOULD REIMBURSE STATE.

Virginia Senator Introduces a Bill Covering Old Advances.

A bill providing for the repayment by the Federal government to Virginia and Maryland of $192,000 advanced by those States in 1790 and 1791 toward the erection of public buildings in the District has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Martin, of Virginia.

The Mount Vernon Avenue Association, a Virginia corporation, is the assignee of the State of Virginia, and the sum advanced by that State was $120,000. Maryland advanced $72,000.

DIGGES FUNERAL TO-DAY.

Witness at Inquest Calls Railroad Crossing a Death Trap.

Funeral services for Charles Dudley Digges, of Baltimore, who was killed by a train on Thursday on Thursday afternoon last, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning from Christ Episcopal Church, La. Plaza, Md. Interment will be at La. Plaza.

An inquest was held yesterday afternoon at Hyattsville, the coroner's jury returning a verdict that Digges was killed by being struck by an engine drawing a train of cars over the Baltimore and Ohio track while endeavoring to board a train which was just drawing out from the station for Baltimore.

Several witnesses were of the opinion Digges could have escaped being struck had it not been for a fence separating the tracks. Robert W. Wells said the construction of the tracks at the crossing was a "veritable death trap."

Justice of the Peace A. H. Bahler acted as coroner. The jury was composed of Louis Wiseman, William C. Soule, Frederick Morrison, Frank T. Galp, James Rutherford, James Gorrie, C. C. Magruder, John Salinger, Louis Justice, Arthur Garr, Jr., William Herron, and William A. Dorr.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSE BUDGET.

Employment of High-cost-of-living Experts Proposed.

There was objection in the Senate yesterday from the Democrats to consideration of the resolution authorizing the expenditure by the Senate committee that is investigating the high cost of living of $50,000 in the employment of experts and specialists.

The resolution was reported favorably from the Committee on Audit and Finance. It is admitted the employment of experts would result in the continuation of the investigation into the summer. The resolution will come up again to-day.

MAJ. GEN. GRANT ELIGIBLE.

Military Record Entitles Him to Membership in G. A. R.

The military record of Maj. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant was corrected in the House yesterday. Back in civil war days, at the battle of Vicksburg, Gen. Grant served as voluntary aid and comfort to his illustrious father.

He was then twelve or thirteen years old and was never formally mustered into the service, although he held some sort of a personal commission from his father. This action by the House on a Senate bill makes him eligible for membership in the Grand Army of the Republic.

FARE PAID BY DISTRICT.

Bill Provides for Return of Prisoners After Release.

Senator Martin has introduced in the Senate a bill similar to that offered in the House recently by Representative Carlin, of Virginia, providing that prisoners confined at the new penal institutions near Occoquan, Va., after being released, shall be returned to the District at the expense of the District.

Senator Gallinger yesterday introduced the bill drawn by the Commissioners giving them authority to make regulations requiring the display of lights on all classes of vehicles.

WATERWAY BUDGET DISCUSSED.

Senator Burton Opposes Day's Session Opposing Appropriation Bill.

The Senate considered the rivers and harbors appropriation bill during most of the session yesterday.

Senator Burton, of Ohio, occupied most of the time opposing the bill. His argument was an amplification of the minority report he made Thursday.

Senator Burton had not concluded when the Senate adjourned, and will resume to-day.

It is doubtful, in view of the small progress made whether the consideration of the bill can be completed to-day.

PROBATION SYSTEM INDORSED.

Gaebel Would Give District Supreme Court Authority.

Representative Gaebel, of Ohio, yesterday favorably reported from the House Judiciary Committee the bill to establish a probation and parole system for the District. It provides for the appointment of a probation officer by the Supreme Court of the District at $1,500 a year, and the appointment by the Police Court of one probation officer at $1,500, and one assistant at $1,200. Volunteer probation officers, to serve without compensation, are also provided for.

The Supreme Court of the District is given authority, after the conviction of a prisoner, to place the defendant upon probation upon such terms as may be deemed advisable, and the same authority is given to the Police Court. Probation officers are to investigate all cases referred to them by the court. The new system is similar to that now in vogue in the District relating to juvenile offenders. The bill appropriates $5,000 to carry out the provisions.

Want Meridian Hill Park.

Senator Carter has introduced a bill carrying an appropriation of $500,000 for the purchase of the land on Meridian Hill, between Euclid street, Florida avenue, Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets northwest as the site for a public park.

VIENNA CITIZENS CHEER ROOSEVELT

chin, stood at the entrance to receive them. Although the scene in the Pantheon at Rome was far more impressive for this function of paying tribute to the dead members of the royal house, the actual ceremony in this simple chapel was more dignified.

Few Admitted to Crypt.

With the exception of Col. Roosevelt, Baron Hengelmueller, a monk, two attendants, one of the latter being a young woman, and six American correspondents, nobody was admitted to the crypt, where the sarcophagi of the ancient house of Hapsburg lie. Descending the plain, white tiled stairway, the little company halted for a moment and took two huge wreaths of red and white flowers, tied with a long red, white and blue ribbon, inscribed simply "Theodore Roosevelt," with the date in gilt letters.

Then the party passed into the unostentatious, white-walled, white-roofed crypt, on the floor of which stood bronze sarcophagi of all sizes. At the far end, on either side of a beautiful bronze Madonna, a memorial of the women of Hungary to the murdered empress, stood the sarcophagi of Elizabeth and Rudolph. Upon them the attendants placed the wreaths, while Col. Roosevelt stood between the sarcophagi. This comprised all the ceremony.

After a moment's pause, Baron Hengelmueller pointed out the Madonna, Col. Roosevelt read the inscriptions on the sarcophagi and looked at the other interesting tomb. He then departed.

A Hapsburg Tradition.

Hapsburg tradition says that rain always marked the visits of Caesar to the Pantheon in Rome. Rain and thunder marked Roosevelt's visit. To-day when visiting the Valhalla of the Hapsburgs these meteorological portents were not absent. The sun, which was blazing when Roosevelt went to the palace, was obscured by ominous thunder clouds as he neared the chapel. When he alighted from the royal carriage rain began to fall heavily. Scarcely had he left the chapel when a heavy thunder storm broke. The rain fell in torrents, the lightning flashed vividly, and the thunder roared like salvos of artillery. Let those who will, interpret this omen.

Witnesses Maneuver.

After the visit to the chapel, Roosevelt left a few cards ceremoniously, including one at the palace of Arch Duke Ferdinand. While he was thus engaged his secretary left Roosevelt's cards upon people of lesser importance. Then once more in brilliant sunshine the colonel procession proceeded to the Spanish riding school in the palace.

Here Roosevelt witnessed old Spanish haute école work by horses as near perfect in shape and training as it is given to men to breed and teach. In this school young members of the imperial household are taught to ride. The school has existed since the days of the Spanish alliance with Charles V. The horses have been taught complicated steps and difficult poses.

Later there was a luncheon at which forty-five covers were laid. The guests were distinguished socially and officially. They included members of the American Embassy, foreign officers, secretaries, Count Wilczek, whose historic castle, Kreutzenstein, Roosevelt will visit tomorrow; representatives of the high nobility, famous Nimrods, like Count Hoyes, who has shot everything, bears in Alaska and lions in Africa; Count Larish, who rides to hounds and shoots pheasants in England, and Count Festetics and his wife, who is the divorced wife of the Prince of Monaco.

Discussed World Topics.

London, April 16.—The Vienna correspondent of the Telegraph intimated that Roosevelt had a special desire to meet Baron von Aehrenthal, Austrian Prime Minister, whose hand was recently heavy upon European policies. He adds it is a fair assumption that matters of the most vital importance to the peace of the entire world came within the scope of their conversation.

Tired of Public Functions.

Berlin, April 15.—Private advices have been received here to the effect that it is improbable that Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter Ethel will accompany the colonel to Berlin. These advices are to the effect that Mrs. Roosevelt is not very strong, and is tired of all the public functions which she has had to participate in Egypt and Italy. She is anxious, therefore, to avoid the fatigue which would inevitably be connected with her husband's royal and popular receptions at The Hague, Brussels, Christiania, Copenhagen, and Berlin.

Porto Maurizio, April 15.—Roosevelt and her daughter Ethel left at noon to-day for Avignon. The civil and military authorities and a committee of ladies bade her farewell and presented her with flowers.

PARR'S REWARD HELD UP.

Richard Parr's claim to a moiety of the $700,000 which he helped the government recover from the American Sugar Refining Company, and other sugar concerns caught violating the customs laws, was practically turned over to the Department of Justice yesterday.

The decision as to what Mr. Parr, the deputy surveyor, who had much to do with unearthing the frauds, shall receive, will be made by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, who is in charge of the nation's customs.

Mr. MacVeagh, however, is puzzled over the laws which he thought applicable to Mr. Parr's case for some time; Assistant Secretary Curtis, who is in direct charge of customs, took a look at the problem, too. Then Secretary MacVeagh decided it was too deep for the Treasury. He sent the papers in the case to Mr. Wick-ersham.

Invitations are being extended to those interested in the property.

Compares Church and State.

"The church and the nation" was the subject of a lecture given last night by Dr. S. H. Woodrow at the Northminster Presbyterian Church. He showed the relative progress of the church and state by comparing the work of the Eleventh Congress with the present and the work of the church during the nineteenth century with the work done to-day.
